

WATER PARKS

Weller Pools has been at the leading edge of waterpark construction in the U.S. since the first waterpark was built. Weller Pools was the contractor that built what is considered the first major waterpark in the United States. Teaming with George Millay in 1977, Weller Pools was instrumental with the creation and construction of Wet 'n Wild in Orlando, Florida. Weller Pools then went on to team with Millay to build another waterpark located in Arlington, Texas under the Wet 'n Wild name. Weller Pools has since teamed with the biggest amusement parks and entertainment organizations to build some of the most elaborate and recognizable water parks in the U.S. and Caribbean.

Weller Pools continues to be one of the most sought after design/build contractors to develop the most exciting and cutting edge attractions that are being built to date.
